Industry & Energy

Our strength is to offer one-stop comprehensive engineering solutions to industries. We advise and support our clients with a wide range of services throughout the life-cycle of projects from concept to commissioning and thereafter. This includes project feasibility studies, basic and detailed engineering, procurement and construction management.

Over the years, through our experience of execution of many large projects, we have developed an optimum project management methodology. Our project execution technique recognises that each project has unique elements that require tailor made approach. Methods are in place in our system to provide a project specific dynamic approach, including all project management tools including document management, budgeting and cost control, project execution planning, site management services etc. Through our project focused multidisciplinary and integrated services, we ensure timely completion of projects within budget.

Above methodology is fully integrated with our ISO 9001 Quality Management System, OHSAS 18001 Health and Safety Management System and ISO 14001 Environmental Management System.

Involvement of Haskoning India at an early stage can facilitate clients to identify energy efficient, business driven and market focused projects. With our enthusiasm, energy, expertise and commitment, we always build long lasting relationship with clients on a strong foundation of trust, transparency and understanding.
